SOME OF WHAT'S INSIDE FALL 2013

94FIFTY: A SLAM DUNK

6-7

The SJC studies of two alums would prove to be the perfect combination for an innovative product launch and business partnership.

MEETING THE MOBILE ERA HEAD-ON

14-15

The Department of Computer Science decided to teach its introductory programming courses with an emphasis on smartphone technology and app development.

2013 GRADUATES INVITED TO A FUTURE OF SERVICE AND LEARNING

16-17

On Sunday, May 12, Saint Joseph's College graduated its 118th class of seniors with Michael Scudder '93 serving as the Commencement speaker.

SR. MICHELLE CIMAROLI '07 CONTINUES LEGACY OF SERVICE

The journey has not been without hardships, but Cimaroli knows they've been worth the utter joy she feels from committing to sisterhood.

PROLIFIC PUMA PITCHING

The SJC baseball team acquired several postseason accolades with the release of the National College Baseball Writers Association (NCBWA) All-Region Team.

2013 HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

We recognize and thank all those who contributed to SJC during the 2012-2013 fiscal year.

[A FIRESIDE CHAT WITH FDR]

When a Saint Joseph's College student talks about her experience on campus and compares notes with her older Puma sister on her SJC experience, that is "legacy." When an SJC graduate looks into the crowd at Commencement and sees his proud Puma father beaming, that is legacy. When a new SJC freshman steps onto the campus for Orientation and her Puma aunt helps her move into her dorm, that is legacy.

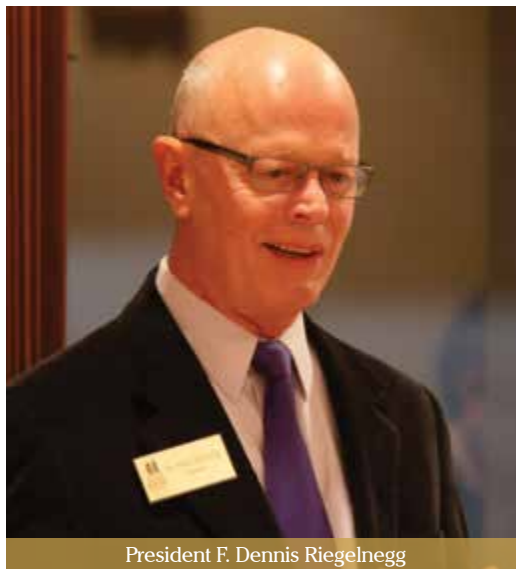

Legacy may also exist in the sense of one life touching another by "donating" something significant and meaningful from the past.

Whether it is a service torch that is passed down from one Habitat member to another, a faculty member leading a student in the way of Christian Humanism, a retreatant at Kairos getting life lessons from a Kairos leader, a young C.P.P.S. priest carrying on the work of an older priest, or a Puma businesswoman giving advice to a young Puma intern at a Business Networking Reception, there is a Puma Legacy that marches on, whether people are related by blood or not. Knowledge, culture, and understanding are passed along from one Puma to the next, and SJC is an inherent part of that cultural moment between the generations.

As we see in this issue of Contact, Saint Joseph's College has been defined by the legacies of countless SJC staff, faculty, students, and alumni. Dr. John Nichols has carried on the torch of the Core Program, the centerpiece of an SJC education. Fr. Gerlach passed on the history of the College in loving detail. Legions of students have been the fortunate recipients of our retired faculty's insight, wisdom, and friendship. Our retired staff have seen their passion for SJC bear fruit in the continued pursuit of perfection that drives today's staff. The passion our alumni feel for the College is made visible in every service opportunity, gift, networking event, and Homecoming weekend. These legacies, handed down from the past, define our College.

Alumni want others to feel what they felt, see what they saw, learn what they learned, do what they did. Although times have changed—the music, technology, and cars are different—the mission of SJC is what remains constant. It is something in which we believe and keep close to our hearts, cherishing the values we share. We each carry on this tradition in our own way.

As a Puma, how will you leave a lasting impression?

President F. Dennis Riegelneegg

"Understanding what the SJC experience is all about, we thought SJC would be a great fit for our daughter Allison."

94FIFTY:

Two friends grow up together and start a business. It's a familiar plot, but the manner in which Michael Crowley '93 and Mark Davisson '93 carried it out is a great story. The two grew up in Rensselaer and received full rides to play basketball for the Pumas. Surprisingly, Crowley and Davisson chose different majors. Crowley majored in Accounting, Davisson in Computer Science. Years later, their studies would prove to be the perfect combination for an innovative product launch and business partnership.

After graduating from SJC, Crowley attended the University of Michigan, where he earned his Master of Business Administration. He began his professional career as a CPA and has been a founder or co-founder in all of his business ventures, successfully leading the early stage positioning and financing for firms in consumer entertainment, software, and medical devices, among others.

Davisson began his time at SJC as an Accounting major, but after forming a friendship with Assistant Professor of Computer Science Brian Capouch, he switched to Computer Science. Along with his fellow students and Capouch, Davisson was fortunate to have the chance to work on early Internet technologies, paving the way for jobs in early Internet network engineering and software development. He went on to work at Advanced Network Services, LLC in Ann Arbor, Mich., where he hired four SJC graduates. Among the four was Matthew Davy '96, now Chief Network Architect at Indiana University Bloomington.

In the early 2000s, Davisson became a consultant and started and sold a company that built Internet traffic monitoring software. He moved on to Accenture Mobility Services in 2007 and worked with Marathon Oil Corporation to co-develop a wireless gas detector after two employee fatalities due to gas exposure. The detector, which could be clipped to employees' clothes, featured location tracking technology and would sound an alarm when gas was detected. The device, along with the location tracking chip inside it, were both patented in 2012.

The venture that would bring Crowley and Davisson back together was InfoMotion Sports Technologies, begun by CEO Crowley. InfoMotion develops motion sensor technology to measure muscle memory development for high intensity team sports. Crowley and Davisson sponsored the Technology Room at the MIT Sloan Sports Analytics conference in Boston, Mass. in early 2013 and were swamped by the media, top executives from ESPN, Disney, the National Basketball Association (NBA), Nike, and others. They introduced a new technology for a basketball product called "94Fifty." 94Fifty is the dimension of a basketball court. The ball has sensors embedded in it that measure the motion of the ball, and then algorithms translate the motion into ball handling and shooting skills.

To get started, an app is downloaded to a smartphone or tablet, and the user bounces the ball three or four times to connect it to the app. The 94Fifty sensor basketball feels and weighs the same as any basketball, but embedded inside is an array of six sensors, a Bluetooth radio, and battery positioned in a holder engineered to minimize vibrations on the sensors and maximize ball performance. The ball comes with a small recharging pad, and the battery can last up to eight hours during normal use. The ball is engineered to counterbalance the extra weight of the embedded device so the user will not notice any imbalances.

Crowley's entrepreneurial skills found the perfect complement in Davisson's computer science acumen. Davisson joined InfoMotion in 2012 and jumped immediately into the 94Fifty project. After the product was launched, a large electronics retailer contacted

A SLAM DUNK

Crowley and Davisson about adding the basketball to its store, which it will do during the Christmas season. The basketballs can also be purchased through InfoMotion's website, infomotionsports.com. Pre-ordered basketballs will be shipped starting in October, and the app will be Apple- and Android-compatible. The product has received the endorsement of the Association for Basketball Coaches, and several high profile coaches, including the University of Kansas head men's basketball coach Bill Self, will provide voices for the 94Fifty app.

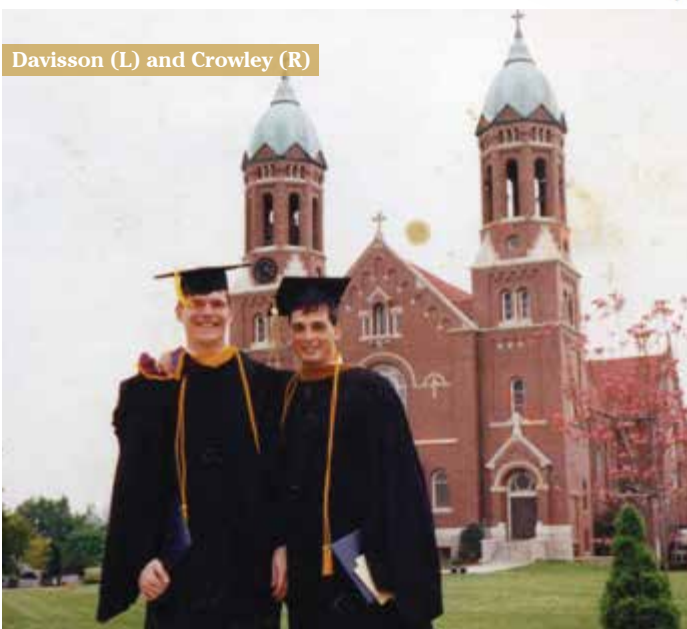

"These basketballs are going to offer many benefits to players and coaches," said Davisson. "They will offer a precise and engaging way for players to improve their skill set, and they will give coaches much better data to look at when analyzing players they are interested in recruiting."

In looking at the success of InfoMotion, Davisson singled out two men as being responsible for the rise of the company.

"Mike Crowley is a brilliant entrepreneur, and he is acting as a true CEO," said Davisson. "There would be no InfoMotion without him. Also, I wouldn't be in this position without Brian Capouch. He fostered the ability to lend my talent to InfoMotion."

The future is bright for InfoMotion. The 94Fifty Sensor Basketball is generating a great amount of interest, and the company will launch a sensor soccer ball in 2014 using the same engineering. As technological capabilities continue to expand at an unprecedented pace, Crowley and Davisson should find themselves at the forefront of sports technology for years to come.

These basketballs are going to offer many benefits to players and coaches. They will offer a precise and engaging way for players to improve their skill set, and they will give coaches much better data to look at when analyzing players they are interested in recruiting.

A Conversation with Hoa Nguyen

SJC VICE PRESIDENT FOR BUSINESS AFFAIRS

HOA NGUYEN STARTED HIS POSITION WITH THE COLLEGE ON AUGUST 20, 2012. SINCE HE HAS BEEN HERE, SJC HAS SEEN SOME VERY POSITIVE CHANGES ACROSS CAMPUS. NGUYEN SPOKE WITH CONTACT ABOUT THOSE CHANGES AND ALSO ABOUT HIS BACKGROUND.

Hoa Nguyen received his degrees from Aquinas College and the University of Detroit. He recently resumed work on his doctoral dissertation at Colorado State University. He came to SJC from Our Lady of the Lake College in Baton Rouge, La., where he was the vice president for finance and administration for three years.

Nguyen has been in higher education administration more than 10 years. He was an adjunct faculty member at Olivet College and Northwood University for five semesters in the areas of Finance, Organizational Behavior, and Human Resource Management. Prior to that, he was in the state of Michigan fiscal office. He served as an assistant national bank examiner for the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency in the federal government; he was appointed to serve on the Michigan Commission on Asia in the Schools by Governor John Engler in 2002.

According to Nguyen, many challenges face SJC, ranging from operational deficits to long-term debt to building infrastructure issues. These issues could be attributed to “deferred maintenance” decisions, which is the upkeep of buildings and equipment postponed from the institution’s normal operating budget cycle due to a lack of funds. The cost to fix deferred maintenance issues could be high. Also, campus technology is in need of many upgrades, including training/certification for our IT staff.

“My goal is to build up and sustain our financial and physical/technological infrastructure to support and provide transformative experiences for our students.”

Despite these challenges, we are moving in a positive direction: “Fortunately, we were able to control the operational deficits in FY 2012-2013. We have identified key issues in IT that we need to work on and improve, such as the wireless infrastructure, new computers for our faculty, the migration to Google mail, etc. In addition, we have refinanced our long-term debt to a fixed rate with a 20-year commitment.”

Looking forward, Nguyen seeks to build on what he has already accomplished at SJC, with a focus on the mission of the institution: “My goal is to build up and sustain our financial and physical/technological infrastructure to support and provide transformative experiences for our students. In addition, I want to support and enhance faculty and staff excellence through improved compensation, financial support for professional activity and travel, as well as professional development programming.”

Getting Personal

Nguyen was born in South Vietnam; he arrived in Michigan in 1975 as a young refugee after the war was over on April 30, 1975. He considers Okemos, Mich. his hometown, the place where he met his wife and where all his children were born.

STUDENTS MEET with HOMETOWN LEGISLATORS as PART of ICI LOBBY DAY

In April 2013, students from Saint Joseph's College joined their peers from Indiana's private colleges and universities in delivering three messages in person at the Indiana State House: sincere thanks for the legislators' ongoing commitment to state need-based financial aid for students; the urgent need for their continued support of this aid; and the critical importance to Indiana's economic health of increasing the number of Hoosiers with bachelor's degrees.

The students gathered at the Indiana Historical Society in downtown Indianapolis before walking to the State House to meet with their hometown legislators. At the Historical Society, the students were briefed by Independent Colleges of Indiana (ICI) President Richard Ludwick on current legislative issues involving state-funded need-based student aid.

"Our goal was not only to raise awareness to the legislature of the importance of state financial aid – to put students' names and faces on the state funds they appropriate – but also to introduce our students to how the legislative process works, how it affects their lives and futures, and how they can play a role in shaping its direction," said Ludwick.

Indiana's independent colleges and universities are a smart investment for students and the state, graduating twice as many of their students in four years as any other sector of higher education in Indiana, costing the state less per degree because the campuses themselves receive no state funding, and contribute $4 billion in total economic impact around the state. Senior Mass Communication major Katie Dittman of Elkhart, Ind. attended the event with first-hand experience of the importance of student aid funding.

"I attended ICI Lobby Day in 2011 and decided to participate this year because I know the importance of financial aid funding for college students," said Dittman. "We were able to meet with several legislators, including Representative Doug Gutwein, and they took the time to listen to our concerns about student aid funding. It was an experience for which I am incredibly grateful."

Independent Colleges of Indiana is a membership association that serves as the collective voice for the state's 31 private, non-profit colleges and universities. ICI member institutions enroll some 90,000 students (approximately 20 percent of all students statewide) and annually produce 35 percent of all bachelor's degrees in Indiana. Information about ICI is available at www.icindiana.org.

LEGACY SPOTLIGHT

ALLISON BOYLE '16

I chose SJC after coach Bill Massoels '89 recruited me for the track and field program. It was an easy decision based on the family-like atmosphere of the track team and the confidence I felt that I would do well in the Core Program.

My parents didn't pressure me into considering SJC until the time came to visit and apply to colleges. My parents played a supportive role; they were helpful during the recruitment process, as was coach Massoels.

I had a positive first year at SJC, and I'm looking forward to the coming years. I think my SJC experience will be different from the one my parents had and also different from the experiences of the Puma track team alumni, due to a different coaching style.

Core 1 impacted me this year by allowing me to have a broader perspective in the modern age. I plan to graduate with degrees in Psychology and Sociology, and I plan to attend graduate school to get a master's degree in Social Work.

MARK BOYLE '89

Lisa and I were very determined that Allison take the responsibility for making the decision to choose SJC, but we were both advocates for SJC. Knowing her personality and understanding what the SJC experience is all about, we both thought it would be a great fit for her. Before she made the decision, she had good opportunities to gauge that on her own, without mom and dad's influence. Bill Massoels really presented a positive vision of the opportunities that awaited her.

My memories of SJC are great. I felt welcome and comfortable there quickly and was challenged to grow in the classroom. I know it prepared me very well for life beyond SJC. I also managed to meet lots of really good people and had plenty of fun, whether it was the social aspect of SJC, or sports-related through the cross country and track teams. Best of all, I met my wife, Lisa!

The Core Program definitely has had a positive impact. An accounting degree is complemented very naturally by a strong liberal education. Good accounting and financial work should include plenty of communication, and that's a lot easier when your education places an emphasis on it.

IPADS a HIT in THE CRUCIBLE

In the 2011 summer issue of Contact, Saint Joseph's College President Dr. F. Dennis Riegelnegg discussed the growing importance of technology on campus and shared how SJC had begun committing itself to incorporating modern and effective technology in the classroom.

Since President Riegelnegg's "Fireside Chat" in 2011, SJC has witnessed the continued popularity of its Athletics' website, the renovation of the Core Computer Lab in the Rev. Charles Banet, C.P.P.S. Core Education Center, and the increased availability of online courses. In the 2012-13 academic year, the College went a step further when 31 junior and senior Business Administration and Accounting majors were given SJC-purchased 16 gigabyte iPads with retina displays for use in The Crucible, a Business course that places student teams in competitive scenarios that test the application of skills and concepts developed in earlier courses. The feedback from students and faculty who were a part of the class was very positive.

"The main benefits of using the iPads in class included the students having instant access to information while also offering a new way for them to interact outside of class," said Associate Professor of Accounting Terra Schafer Maienbrook '97. "As for the iPads themselves, they were wonderful. When I used to have students bring their own laptops, it was always 10-15 minutes of me doing tech support before we were all up and running. The iPads have zero boot time, which makes it very easy to start and stop activities."

The use of the iPads was made possible through Vice President for Academic Affairs Dr. Daniel Blankenship's desire to conduct a pilot study for using mobile technology in the classroom. He requested of the SJC Committee on the Use of Technology for Academic Programs (CUTAP) to recommend a device that fit a list of criteria, and the committee recommended the iPad. Blankenship then took the idea to the President's Cabinet for support and funding.

The iPads proved to be excellent supplementary tools for the course, allowing for real-time fact checking, collaborative online activities through wallwisher.com and Google Drive, and online simulation and the use of eBooks.

Students used the iPads extensively in team meetings outside of class and as a means of communicating via FaceTime, Twitter, Facebook, and other instant messaging platforms. The students were especially pleased with the pilot study, partly because they were allowed to keep the iPads as they long as they completed the course.

One of the greatest benefits of using iPads in the classroom was the drastic reduction in paper usage. Maienbrook stated that little to no paper was used during the course because the iPads allowed for documentation of discussions and in-class assignments, and any information that needed to be shared could be done through the tablets. Furthermore, students were given more power and control and were more inclined to participate in class, which built a collaborative atmosphere among the students. Out of 29 students who responded to a survey about the use of the iPads, they all claimed to have used the devices in other classes, mostly for Moodle activities, fact checking, data gathering, and Internet searches.

"As technology continues to advance, professors are becoming more lenient when it comes to using tablets in the classroom," said Mokena, Ill. native Brittany Palmateer '13, who received her Bachelor of Science in Accounting in May. I was able to use my iPad in almost all of my classes, and as a note-taking device, it allowed me to keep the notes for all my classes together in one location. Also, since I graduated, it was nice to walk away with a 'free iPad,' so to speak."

It has not yet been decided if the pilot study will expand and continue to include The Crucible, but according to the aforementioned survey, it would be a welcome staple. Students felt that the iPads aided and improved communication with their instructors and classmates, made group meetings more effective and productive, and created a more interactive classroom environment.

"The iPads were a tremendous asset," said Palmateer. "They truly amplified the learning experience."

JAMES ECHLE '66 ARTIFACTS FROM

Prepared by Dr. Michael D. Nichols, William E. Johnston Jr. Assistant Professor of Religious Studies

The Robinson Memorial Library was renovated during the 21st Century Campaign. Part of the Library's renovation included the creation of a Gallery for exhibits. One such exhibit has been made possible by Jim '66 and Michiyo Echle. More than two dozen Hindu, Nepali, and Tibetan artifacts, some of which date back to the 17th century, were donated by the Echles to the College, in addition to a museum-quality display case. Many of the items were collected by Jim in the 1960s while he was working in India.

Echle has worked and resided in such places as Tokyo, Ho Chi Minh City, Singapore, Australia, and Hong Kong. He graduated from SJC with a Bachelor of Science in Finance. The Indiana native served the American Soybean Association for 12 years, first as the ASA Southeast Asia Director in Singapore and then as the ASA Japan Director. Echle became Asian CEO of Biomin Laboratory and was transferred to Vietnam in 2003 as COO of Biomin Vietnam to develop the market in South Vietnam. Echle then served as a consultant on a two-year contract to Sojitz Vietnam, a large Japanese trading house. Jim and Michiyo are now enjoying retirement in Hawaii.

At the time of the Echles' donation, Michael Nichols, PhD '00, William E. Johnston, Jr. Assistant Professor of Religious Studies, just joined the SJC faculty and was both eager and willing to put his world religions knowledge to work by researching the artifacts. The artifacts have a special significance to SJC, as India is the subject of Core 7: Intercultural Studies.

The following are highlights of Nichols' research of the Echles' artifacts.

HINDU FIGURES

These figures are from the Chola period, which extends 17th-19th century. Based on my research, these pieces were made through a process called the "lost wax technique" in which a bronze, or copper-bronze mix, would be poured into a mold of the figure and then set to dry. The drying process would sometimes be hastened by the use of clay, later chipped off to add detail to the figures.

1 Krishna, a popular South Indian god, is considered a manifestation of the god Vishnu. Krishna is often associated with music. This figure's hands are held out to hold flute, but the flute is not depicted/missing. The upright hand holds a conch shell.

2 Ganesha is the son of the divine couple Shiva and Parvati. He received his unusual head when his human head was lost and Shiva replaced it with the head of the first creature he found: an elephant. Here he is shown sitting, with a large mouse between his legs. In his hands he holds an axe (to cut through delusion), a sweet (for the sweetness of the realized self), his trunk, and a flower.

3 Baby Krishna, holding a laddoo (Indian sweet, sometimes called a "butter ball"). Besides music, Krishna is associated with lightheartedness, and this aspect of his personality is exhibited here through the dancing.

4 The goddess Lakshmi is a consort of the great god Vishnu. Here she is shown sitting, holding a lotus in her right hand.

5 This is also a figure of Lakshmi. In her right hand she holds a lotus atop a post, "padmavati." Sometimes this figure is even referred to as "Padmavati," or Bhu Devi ("Earth Goddess"). This is a frequent depiction of Lakshmi, who is the goddess of fortune and prosperity. The long skirt/cloth she wears on her legs is called a dhota and it is a traditional style of Indian dress. She is standing rigidly upright to mirror Vishnu's stance as the supporter or pillar of order in the cosmos.

6 Parvati – Shiva's consort, she is recognizable by her curved stature and the left arm with fingers pointing straight down. The style of this small figure exemplifies a common portrayal of goddesses in Hindu art: the tribhanga or "three curved" stature in which the head points in one direction, the upper body opposite to the head, and the lower body curves parallel to the head. Parvati is said to have won Shiva's affection by performing great feats of self-denial. She is also known as “Uma,” which, incidentally, is the source for actress Uma Thurman’s first name.

NEPALI/TIBETAN BUDDHIST FIGURES

8 Prayer wheel with scroll inside, it would be spun and with each rotation, the message of the scroll inside, which contains a very old parchment with a Buddhist sutra (teaching text), was thought to echo out into the universe.

9 Primary symbols of Tibetan, Tantric Buddhism. Quadruple Thunderbolt scepter (vajra, Sanskrit; dorje, Tibetan) and bell (ghanta, Sanskrit; drilbu, Tibetan). The handle of the bell at one time would have had the faces of goddesses and Buddhas on it. Together, the scepter and bell represent the union of opposites: male and female, compassion and wisdom (respectively). The Thunderbolt would be held in the right hand and the bell in the left. Through holding both, the practitioner would try to achieve equilibrium between these forces.

10 Another central symbol of Tibetan, Tantric Buddhism, this is the Buddha and his consort, prajnaparamita (the perfection of wisdom) in mystic union, which is portrayed through the allegory of sexual union. Like the bell and the thunderbolt, this image of sexual union (called yab yum in Tibetan, literally “father-mother”) is meant to communicate the union of opposites.

MEETING THE MOBILE

As smartphones continue to dominate the mobile phone market, mobile app development has transformed into a lucrative business venture with limitless potential and opportunities for creative and tech-savvy minds. With that in mind, the Department of Computer Science decided to teach both of its introductory programming courses with an emphasis on smartphone technology and app development.

This plan was set into motion in 2011 at the O'Reilly Open Source Convention (OSCON), at which Assistant Professor of Computer Science Brian Capouch has presented multiple times. At that year's convention, Capouch attended a session where David Wolber, a professor at the University of San Francisco, and other App Inventor pioneers, explained the importance of their work in the education field. Capouch purchased the book App Inventor by Wolber and Hal Abelson, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), from which Capouch gained valuable insight and ideas.

Financial underwriting was provided by Blake '06 and Ivy VanEekeren to buy Android smartphones that Capouch and a class used in a project to geotag graves in the historic Independence Cemetery near Medaryville, Ind. During that project, Capouch learned that it is possible to buy select Android smartphones at a good price, and he began to collect them for his students. During the first semester of the 2012-13 year, the freshman-level classes used App Inventor for Android and a set of code known as "Java Bridge" to develop its own apps, and transition from App Inventor to the Java programming language.

App Inventor for Android is an online, cloud-based application originally provided by Google, but now maintained by MIT. The application uses graphical blocks that plug together on the screen in a manner similar to Legos. The program is available to beginning programmers in a visual fashion, and by manipulating the blocks of functionality on the screen, students develop apps. A phrase Capouch used to describe the process is "learning by analogy." Students know what apps are and do from their experiences using their own phones, and the goal is to make the connection between the blocks they plug together and the resulting functions of the app.

“At a high level, the system is designed to teach all of the basic constructs of a computer program, knowledge which then transfers in the second course into the domain of conventional programming,” said Capouch. “App Inventor is also completely cloud-based, so it’s also an example of the benefits that cloud computing can bring to the classroom.”

“Using App Inventor is one facet of our goal of moving the focus of our instruction into the world of mobile computing, a technology that is growing exponentially and changing all facets of everyone’s lives.”

Another interesting aspect of learning to program on smartphones is that they contain a broad array of sensors – such as GPS, acceleration, proximity, light, and sound – all of which are “exposed” by the App Inventor programming interface. In addition, the phones’ full communications functions, both calling and texting, are made available to the students. These capabilities allow students to write programs during their first semester that are far more sophisticated than the usual introductory programming fare. They also get exposed to cloud computing very early in their careers. The class was paperless, and all homework, exams, assignments, etc., were done electronically.

Students not only learn to program, but they also learn how smartphones work. A project last year involved buying a large number of low-priced phones that had broken screens. Using videos the class found online and inexpensive parts from Asia, a group of Capouch’s students repaired the phones and returned them to working order. In the process, they learned how smartphones physically go together and how to use the Internet as a source of both information and easily gotten parts to help teach themselves a process that is very useful.

Junior Computer Science major Nathan Samano of Portage, Ind., was impressed with App Inventor, and his optimism for the work he and his classmates were doing was matched only by the excitement of being a part of the Computer Science program at SJC.

“Having students immediately start working on creating apps and working with smartphones is very beneficial to Computer Science students in that it is a real-life application that gets students to see all the possibilities that Computer Science has to offer,” said Samano.

“Working with an old-fashioned boring text editor can be intimidating for young students, especially those who are uncertain if Computer Science is right for them.”

App Inventor’s ease of use, combined with the relationship Samano formed with Capouch, have given Samano the ability to be innovative and confident as a computer scientist.

“Professor Capouch has had a significant impact on my pursuit of a Computer Science degree and a bright, hopeful future. My eagerness to learn and succeed in the program thus far have been the results of Capouch being a professor who will push you to achieve the best of your potential. With his help, I can see myself gaining all the necessary skills to become a very successful computer scientist.”

Capouch made a presentation at this year’s OSCON based on the Android-based work that he, Samano, and the rest of his students did this past year – work that will continue with the incoming freshmen and those who will be taking the next course in the curriculum, Data Structures, with Associate Professor of Physics and Computer Science Dr. Jennifer Coy.

“I have used smartphones in many other classroom situations beyond the work in our introductory programming course, and I foresee a future of ubiquitous smartphone usage on campus,” said Capouch. “SJC is meeting the exciting mobile era head-on.”

2013 GRADUATES INVITED TO A FUTURE OF SERVICE AND LEARNING

On Sunday, May 12, Saint Joseph's College graduated its 118th class of seniors with Michael Scudder '93 serving as the Commencement speaker. Scudder, who was the 1993 co-valedictorian, graduated from SJC with a Bachelor of Science in Accounting. He then attended Northwestern University School of Law, where he earned his Juris Doctor in 1998. During his time at SJC, Scudder was a member of the golf team. He was inducted into the SJC Sports Hall of Fame in 2010.

Scudder has served as a law clerk for Judge Paul Niemeyer of the US Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, a law clerk for US Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy, an assistant US Attorney in the Southern District of New York, and a White House legal adviser under President George W. Bush. He is now a partner at Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, where he concentrates in commercial litigation, white collar crime, government investigations, and accounting issues. He is also the leader of Skadden's accounting initiative to advance the firm's accounting litigation practice.

In his Commencement address, Scudder expressed the importance of utilizing the lessons learned through the Core Program and explained the endless advantages it gives the students in their personal and professional lives. Scudder implored the graduates to "...make the commitment to expand your knowledge and then to live a life of learning."

"Core is the College's crown jewel. It sets the College apart, and it will set you apart. You know how to read and reason critically while maintaining an open mind in the face of competing ideas. You appreciate and value diversity and understand the obligation to bear witness to Christian values in your daily lives and relationships with others. You also know how to communicate—by listening carefully, reacting thoughtfully, and expressing yourself clearly, whether around a conference table or on a computer screen or piece of paper. The central ingredients of Core—diverse knowledge, critical reasoning, balanced debate, and effective communication skills—make up the recipe for success in all of your days ahead."

Scudder also called the students to lead a life of service. "A life filled with service is a life full of meaning – a life that reflects an active response to Christ's command to love one another," said Scudder.

Biology-Wildlife Ecology major and Mathematics minor Adrienne DiRuzza '13 of Alexandria, Ind. was named the class of 2013 valedictorian. During her time at SJC, DiRuzza was active in many campus activities, especially those of the Sustainability Coalition, Science Club, and Student Athlete Advisory Committee. She was also a member of the track and field team, math tutor, campus gardener, teacher's aide, and Indiana Space Grant Consortium Vernier LoggerPro Workshop assistant. DiRuzza served as SJC's Community Learning Garden manager, where she played an integral role in the College's sustainability efforts.

In her Commencement speech, DiRuzza stated, "Thanks to the faculty members and a strong diverse academic background, I feel well prepared for whatever life hands me."

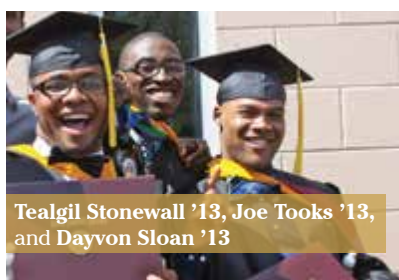

DiRuzza plans to attend Texas A&M University to study Marine Biology.

THE FUTURE IS BRIGHT FOR 2013 PUMAS

Katie Wolven '13 was accepted into the Univ. of South Carolina – Aiken for an MS in Applied Clinical Psychology.

Joseph Karpiak '13, SJC Presidential Scholar, was one of nine students nationwide to receive this year's Delta Epsilon Sigma (DES) Fellowship. A Biology-Chemistry major/Psychology minor, Karpiak plans to attend Southern Illinois University's School of Dental Medicine and start his own practice of general dentistry in Chicagoland. He says, "Knowing that I am the first person to ever apply for this scholarship in SJC history and being the first person to win the scholarship from SJC is a tremendous accomplishment. The other winners all came from large universities and it is a great feeling to know that I was able to put SJC amongst that list."

Mike Lipton '13 has enrolled in the SJC MBA Program. Jasmine Hall '13 is the economic development coordinator for Jasper County Economic Development Organization. Matt Hoekzema '13 is the office administrator for Edward Jones Financial Branch. Tim Conroy '13 is a logistics accountant executive for Total Quality Logistics, a national company in the transportation industry. Juan Carlos

Rodriguez '13 is pursuing a Master of Fine Arts in the Department of Art and Design at Purdue University. Sara Twining '13 is a staff accountant at BKP Accounting, a top-tier CPA & advisory firm offering auditing, tax and financial consulting services.

Three SJC students completed the application process for law school this year—two from the Class of 2013 and one alumnus from the Class of 2012. All three have been accepted to law school: Maggie Dugan '13, a Biology-Chemistry major; Yara Mroueh '13, a Political Science major; and James Wyatt '12, who was an Accounting major.

Mroueh plans a career path in Corporate Law after attending Chicago-Kent College of Law, affiliated with Illinois Institute of Technology. The second oldest law school in the state of Illinois, it is the only law school in the US with a three-year legal writing program. Mroueh credits the Core Program with improving her writing and reading skills: "These are the skills I will take with me to law school and that I believe will help me succeed in my future endeavors." Dugan, who was a Chemistry Department lab assistant and Admissions student ambassador, plans to go into Intellectual Property Law to ultimately become a patent attorney.

SENIOR OF THE YEAR

VANMETER '13 NAMED SJC SENIOR OF THE YEAR

accepted a staff accountant position at CPA firm Katz, Sapper & Miller in Indianapolis. VanMeter was a four-year member of Students in Free Enterprise, competing in regional competitions with the group and holding three leadership positions during that time: historian, treasurer, and president. "I would like to thank the faculty and staff of the College, especially those in the Business Department, that have provided me with the knowledge I need in order to be successful following graduation. As hard as it is to part ways with the place that has given me so much throughout the last four years, I am excited to be starting my career in Indianapolis this fall. As I grow as a person and a professional, I will forever look back on SJC as giving me the foundation to a life where challenges can be seen as opportunities, where critical thinking is the core to success, and where friends truly are family."

SR. MICHELLE CIMAROLI '07 CONTINUES

Second row: Asst. Director of Integrated Marketing Ben Kalinowski '10, Jon Christiansen '15, Associate Prof. of Communication Fred Berger, Coltyn McNelly '16, Laura Creviston '14, Melissa Barrett '13, Construction Manager Joseph Vizurraga.

Sr. Michelle Cimaroli '07 has experienced a call to service since she was a young girl. The daughter of a roofer, Cimaroli would tag along with her father when he volunteered for local Habitat for Humanity builds. It was her father's inclination to service that opened Cimaroli's eyes to the importance of supporting those who are unable to do so themselves, or those who just needed a little support.

Roofing with her father also instilled in Cimaroli a love for construction, which led her to experiences as a student at Saint Joseph's College that would further lay the foundation for a future of traveling, self-discovery, and service.

Cimaroli was born in Chicago, Ill. and moved to Hebron with her family at a young age. Although she received no Catholic schooling growing up, she decided during her senior year of high school that she wanted to attend a small Catholic college close to home in an effort to take more ownership of her faith. SJC proved to be the perfect match.

A Mathematics major and Secondary Education minor, Cimaroli attended her first Habitat for Humanity build through the campus chapter, led by Associate Professor of Mass Communication Fred Berger. Cimaroli regretted not getting involved her freshman year, and she credits a summer camp where she worked that required her to be away from home for encouraging her to travel, which led to Habitat trips to Chile, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Louisiana for Hurricane Katrina relief. Each trip was a life-changing experience for Cimaroli, due in large part to Fred Berger.

"Fred exudes a profound love for Habitat for Humanity and its mission," said Cimaroli. "He sees housing as a human right, and he has the ability to communicate that love to the students. He makes Habitat a family."

It was Cimaroli's connection to Berger and Habitat that opened up an unlikely door in March 2013. While at SJC, Cimaroli began discernment for a religious vocation. She ultimately requested to join the Handmaids of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in 2009 during a period of service in Lima, Peru.

LEGACY OF SERVICE

THE BEST WAY TO FIND YOURSELF IS TO LOSE
SERVICE OF OTHERS.

~MAHATMA GANDHI

"I felt God calling me to be a Handmaid, and the order was the perfect fit for me. I felt God had shaped me into a Handmaid through my experiences growing up and as an adult."

Education in service of the Gospel and community life are central to the Handmaids' mission, and Cimaroli felt she thrived in that setting. In Lima, especially, she felt that the celebration of the Eucharist was one of the only ways to help those who were living in extreme poverty.

"It was a way for me to bring people to Jesus in prayer, especially in the prayer of adoration," said Cimaroli.

Cimaroli continued her cultural immersion in Ecuador as part of her religious formation, where she experienced life as a Handmaid full-time. She was there for three months before returning to Philadelphia. Soon after, Cimaroli would revisit her SJC roots. For the annual Collegiate Challenge trip in March, SJC's chapter would be working in Athens, Ga. The Handmaids have a small community in Athens. Cimaroli had been looking to get back involved with Habitat and to reconnect with SJC, and she now had the opportunity to do so while being able to spend time with members of her religious community.

"Athens offered so many opportunities for connections, and the experience was awesome in so many ways," said Cimaroli. "I got to spend time with Fred and Sally, whom I had been very close to as a student and had maintained contact with following graduation, and it was wonderful spending time with the sisters in the Athens community. Spending a few nights with the SJC students was also a joy. I felt at home with them."

Cimaroli arranged for the group from SJC to visit the Handmaids' community, which was located in the poverty-stricken Pinewood Estates North trailer park, home to a mostly Spanish-speaking immigrant population. Within the community, the Handmaids run the Oasis Católico Santa Rafaela, which sponsors an after-school program for young children.

When the SJC group arrived at the Oasis for the first time, it was greeted by Sr. Margarita Martin, ACJ. Martin spoke with the group about the struggles faced by the Pinewood residents due to poverty and immigration issues. It was an especially moving experience for Cimaroli, whose Core 10 project focused on issues surrounding immigration.

"The compassion the Handmaids demonstrate for the residents is heartwarming, and it's important to show them compassion," said Cimaroli. "Sr. Margarita connected very easily with the SJC group, and her concern and love for the Pinewood residents was quickly shared by the students."

On its last day in Athens, the SJC group joined Cimaroli and the Handmaids at dawn to unload thousands of pounds of food and help distribute it to more than 100 Pinewood families. The group mingled and shared stories with the residents and assisted them in carrying their baskets of food to their homes throughout the park. It was an emotional and fitting end to the workweek.

Cimaroli accompanied the group back to Indiana. She spent two weeks at home before returning to Philadelphia, where she made her first vows. She will be studying for a Master of Education at Saint Joseph's University in Philadelphia while teaching math at Cristo Rey Philadelphia High School.

Cimaroli has traveled a long road to her vocation, from student teaching at a Navajo reservation in Arizona to volunteering in some of South America's most impoverished communities. The journey has not been without hardships, but Cimaroli knows they've been worth the utter joy she feels from committing to sisterhood. For those who may be considering a vocation, religious or otherwise, Cimaroli had this to say.

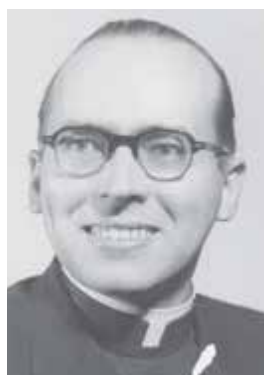

"Do not be afraid to make a commitment. We all have a vocation, a calling to something that makes us truly happy. Be open to experience things that give you life, that break your heart, that give you joy. Be open to those feelings and see where they take you."

REV. DOMINIC B. GERLACH, C.P.P.S. '42

Priest, Historian, Archivist, Translator, Organist

December 11, 1921 – March 16, 2013

Fr. Gerlach was a professor of History and German at the College and served as its archivist. He was born in Carthagen, Ohio; entered the Missionaries of the Precious Blood in 1938; and was ordained a priest in 1950. After receiving an MA with a major in American History and a minor in modern European History from St. Louis University, he was assigned to SJC. He won the Fr. Edwin G. Kaiser Faculty Scholar Award and a Teaching Excellence Award. A leader in the C.P.P.S. Community, he served two terms as local director. He lived in retirement at St. Charles Center in Carthagen.

1941 Transferred to SJC from Brunnerdale Seminary: "My three years at SJC were happier than those at Brunnerdale, for we had more freedom here, and the meals were tops."

1952 Began teaching at SJC. He wrote "Preparing Your Research Paper," which students used until 1969, when Core began.

1959 Named "archivist and historian" of the College.

1969 Helped establish Core Program; taught Cores 1, 3, and 4.

1987 Wrote a book of the College's pictorial history while on the College Centennial Committee.

1995 Retired from teaching History but remained archivist, teaching Core and German.

CARRYING ON THE LEGACY OF FR. GERLACH

Pam Brown-Seely '98, SJC librarian/archivist, uncovers clues that help us understand SJC history

As a student, Brown-Seely was the evening supervisor in the Library; she later became the circulation manager. In her first year, she was assigned to be Gerlach's archives assistant.

Brown-Seely graduated with a BS in Psychology and a minor in Biology. She is working on a Master's of Mental Health Counseling at Valparaiso University.

He spent a year training Brown-Seely before he moved to Carthagen. Brown-Seely explains that Gerlach was not a librarian; his organization was more opportunistic than intentional. Despite that, he knew where everything was.

Archives has since moved to a room in the Library more suited to preservation. Brown-Seely recalls, "Moving Archives was bittersweet. Bitter, because it felt like I was dismantling a big part of Gerlach's life's work. Collections in Archives are arranged according to provenance, because the order of things is important to researchers."

Brown-Seely's hard work pays off in the discovery of fascinating items, which may be an object that is several hundred years old, a letter signed by a president, or an original work by a famous author or artist.

MOVING UP the CORPORATE LADDER, ONE PUMA POPPER at a TIME

The Sales and Marketing Management class kicked off their sixth year of the Puma Popper project with record sales. The class sold more than 1,100 bags of Puma Poppers within 36 hours, with a total of $1,600 in sales and donations – the most collected since the project's inception.

This year's success may be attributed in part to Save-A-Lot. At first, the company offered to sell all their ingredients at cost, which alone would have been a huge savings. But after working with the class, store manager Diane Delahlan and assistant manager Jeremy Hooper '14, along with an anonymous donor, decided to make a donation by covering the cost of the ingredients. Also supporting the project this year was Sundowner Express, Inc. of Remington, Ind., who made a $200 donation.

Every year, the class researches non-profit organizations and presents which cause should receive the current year's funds. This year's non-profit was the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. According to Massoels, "It is one of the most heartbreaking and emotional days of the semester. When you listen to 10 different presentations on non-profit organizations, it is not easy to choose. And the class as a whole has to come to a consensus as to which organization will be used."

The experience was very rewarding for the students, who create a business plan for the semester-long project.

Many students use this experience on interviews as an example of a beginning-to-end project they have participated in.

Prof. Teresa Massoels '89 said, "This class was made up of 10 seniors and they were very excited to be part of this project. From day one when we picked our non-profit organization to which our funds would be donated...to the making, selling, and delivering of the product, the students were always ready to go. I was amazed when we were sold out only after 36 hours. They did a great job selling the product as well as our non-profit organization."

2013 SPORTS HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES

Five Saint Joseph's College alumni have been inducted into the SJC Sports Hall of Fame. The inductees include (pictured L to R) Lou Pinto '97, Zac Wells '97, Melvin Wood '83, Bill Massoels '89, and Katie Felke '80.

A cross country and track and field athlete as a student, Bill Massoels graduated with the fastest 10,000 meter time in school history, a record that stood for 12 years, and the second fastest 5,000 meter time, which stood for 13 years. Massoels' career as the head men's and women's cross country and track and field coach is just as impressive. He is responsible for more than 90% of both sports' best performers and has coached an SJC record 24 All-Americans and 88 Academic All-Americans. He is a two-time winner of the GLVC Coach of the Year Award.

Melvin Wood was named the team MVP for the 1982-83 season. He was named Second Team All-GLVC for the 1981-82 season and GLVC Player of the Year and First Team All-GLVC for the 1982-83 season. Zac Wells was a member of the 1996 team that set the school record for wins in a season (nine). He ranked sixth in career tackles with 363 and shared the record for most sacks in a game with three. Katie Felke's point total in basketball ranks 43rd in SJC history and was ranked first when she graduated. She was a varsity basketball assistant coach on the 2004 team that won the Class 2A State Championship. In Lou Pinto's years as a Puma, the baseball team was a two-time conference champion, the 1996 regional champion, and NCAA Division II national championship runner-up. His .363 career batting average ranks ninth in school history.

MCGUFF COMES HOME TO OHIO TO LEAD LADY BUCKEYES

Saint Joseph's College alumnus Kevin McGuff '92 has been named head women's basketball coach at The Ohio State University.

"We are excited for the opportunity for Kevin to lead our women's basketball program," said Gene Smith, associate vice president and director of athletics at The Ohio State University. "He is a proven leader and has done a marvelous job everywhere he has been. We welcome him back to his home, Ohio."

"I am extremely excited and humbled to be the next women's basketball coach at Ohio State," McGuff said. "This is an amazing opportunity for my family and me to come back to the state of Ohio."

McGuff recently completed his 11th year as a head coach. The last two were at the University of Washington and the previous nine at Xavier University in Cincinnati, Ohio. He has compiled an overall record of 255-99 and has reached the postseason every year.

The Ohio native arrived at Columbus after two years at the University of Washington, where he went 41-26 with two berths in the Women's National Invitation Tournament (WNIT). In the WNIT, Washington went on a memorable run, beating California Polytechnic State University, Utah State University, and Oregon State University before falling to San Diego State University in the quarterfinals.

Prior to his stint in Washington, McGuff was the head coach at Xavier for nine seasons. With the Musketeers, he compiled a 214-73 record and set a school record for most wins in program history. His five consecutive NCAA tournament appearances were also a school record.

McGuff led the Musketeers to four A-10 tournament championships, including his final year at Xavier. That season, his team posted a 28-3 record (.903 winning percentage) and reached the second round of the NCAA tournament. He made the NCAA tournament six times overall as the Xavier coach. His pinnacle was an Elite Eight appearance in the 2009-10 season.

McGuff took the Xavier job after a six-year run as an assistant coach at the University of Notre Dame, inheriting a team that had gone 12-19 the year before. He steered the program to a 20-10 record, one of the most significant turnarounds for a head coach at that time. While with the Fighting Irish, McGuff was an assistant to legendary coach Muffet McGraw. He was a staff member on the Notre Dame team that captured the NCAA Championship in 2001. The Irish reached the Sweet Sixteen four times during his tenure and the Final Four twice.

PROLIFIC PUMA PITCHING

The SJC baseball team acquired several postseason accolades with the release of the National College Baseball Writers Association (NCBWA) All-Region Team. Jordan Peterson '15 earned a selection to the American Baseball Coaches Association (ABCA)/Rawlings All-American Third Team. Peterson claimed another First Team honor while Kolin Conner '13 and Charlie Dennehey '14 solidified the NCBWA Second Team.

Peterson finished with a 9-2 record with one save in 14 appearances on the year, eight of which came in complete game efforts. He held a 1.92 earned run average, allowing just 22 earned runs off 88 hits in 103 innings pitched. On the year, Peterson fanned 87 hitters and held the opposition to a .231 batting average. His eight complete games were fifth-best in the nation, while his 7.0 strikeout-to-walk ratio ranked 11th on the NCAA Division II charts this season. In addition, his ERA ranked 18th in the country while his 1.13 walks allowed per nine innings was 21st.

Peterson earned First Team All-Conference and Great Lakes Valley Conference (GLVC) Pitcher of the Year honors from the GLVC baseball coaches. He was also named Region Pitcher of the Year by the ABCA/Rawlings and First Team All-Region by the Midwest Region Sports Information Directors and Daktronics, Inc.

Conner collected a pair of postseason honors with a First Team All-GLVC selection and Second Team All-Region selection by Daktronics, Inc. Conner exploded out of a slow start with a two-for-three game with a triple and three RBIs against Northwood University on the spring break trip. Conner boasted a .309 average this season with 11 doubles, five triples, and four home runs. He led the team with 46 RBIs and a .509 slugging percentage in 50 games.

Dennehey earned Second Team All-Region honors from Daktronics, Inc. before being named First Team All-Region by ABCA/Rawlings in May. He was also selected as a First Team All-GLVC Selection. Dennehey was batting .204 on April 7 while the Pumas were playing Kentucky Wesleyan College, but ended the season with a .374 average. He hit seven doubles, three home runs, and recorded 30 RBIs. Dennehey also stole 10 bases on 15 attempts.

In 2013, the Pumas ended a five-year absence from the NCAA Tournament. SJC finished fourth in the GLVC East with a 24-12 record in conference play and a 30-20 mark overall. The Pumas were selected as the fourth seed in the Midwest Regional before the season ended in the second round against Bellarmino University in 12 innings. SJC had one of the nation's most prolific pitching staffs in 2013 as the Pumas finished with the best strikeout to walk ratio and walks per nine innings in Division II baseball. SJC's 2.88 team ERA ranked 11th in the country.

BACK HOME AGAIN IN INDIANA

Tom Church is the 18th head coach of the men's basketball team this spring. Coach Church makes his return to SJC after spending the past three seasons as an assistant coach at Florida Southern College. Before his three years at FSC, Church was an assistant coach for the Pumas from 2007 to 2010.

"Tom is the right person to guide our men's basketball program," said Massoels. "He is certainly accustomed to winning and we look forward to seeing that trend continue throughout his tenure."

With Church on the staff at FSC for the past three seasons, the Moccasins were 70-25 with two Sunshine State Conference Tournament Championships in 2012 and 2013. The Moccasins made appearances in the NCAA Tournament all three years and won the South Regional to advance to the Division II Elite Eight in 2013.

"My goal is to create a winning environment on the court, in the classroom, and in the community," said Church. "I plan to instill the values of Saint Joseph's College into the student-athletes and make the city, students, employees, and alumni proud of this program."

In Church's three years with SJC, the Pumas held a 53-37 record with two NCAA Tournament appearances in 2008 and 2010. In 2010, the Pumas won the Great Lakes Valley Conference North Division and won three straight games as the eighth seed in the Midwest Regional to advance to the Division II Elite Eight.

NEW WOMEN'S BASKETBALL COACH: STEVE HAROLD

Director of Athletics Bill Massoels '89 announced on May 7 that Steve Harold accepted the position of head women's basketball coach. Harold will serve as the program's 10th head coach in SJC history.

"Steve's credentials are impeccable, and his tireless work ethic was on full display during the interview process," said Massoels. "Our women's basketball program has won more than 500 games in its history, and we feel Steve is the one to guide us back to our historically lofty standards."

Harold comes to SJC after six successful seasons at Drury University, where his squads compiled a 129-52 record, including an 81-27 mark in the Great Lakes Valley Conference. The Lady Panthers won two GLVC titles (2008, 2010) in Harold's tenure while also capturing at least a share of the GLVC West title four times in six years. Drury qualified for the NCAA Tournament in Harold's first five seasons in Springfield, Mo., advancing as far as the Sweet 16 during the 2009-10 season.

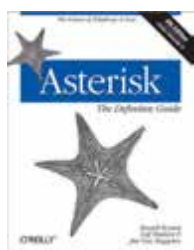

Coach Harold explained, "I want to create a culture backboned by work ethic and a winning attitude for the student-athletes. I will demand success on the court and in the classroom." Last season, Harold's team led the nation in student grade point average.

Prior to his tenure at Drury, Harold had a 262-107 record in 12 seasons at Glenville State College in Glenville, W. Va. That includes a 33-3 mark—the best mark in school history—and an NCAA II Elite Eight appearance in 2006-07, where the Lady Pioneers fell to University of California San Diego in the quarterfinals to complete their sixth straight NCAA Tournament trip. After the season, Harold was honored as Division II National Coach of the Year. Harold's Lady Pioneers were a combined 63-6 in his last two seasons and posted 20 wins or more eight times, winning West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WVIAC) championships in 2002, 2003, 2004, 2006, and 2007 to go with three WVIAC tournament titles.

FACULTY [NOTES]

Mary Ilu Altman, PhD, Director of Student Services at St. Elizabeth School of Nursing, presented at the University of Illinois Interfaith Conference on April 5. She attended the University of Notre Dame Vita Institute Summer Seminar, June 9-21. The Institute is affiliated with the Notre Dame Center for Ethics and Culture; the seminar examined human life issues through the lens of Catholic doctrine from the perspective of multiple academic disciplines. The Institute committee selected 29 professionals of diverse backgrounds as participants, and the University awarded them funds to cover the seminar's tuition, room, and board.

Brian Capouch, Assistant Professor of Computer Science, gave the keynote presentation at the annual meeting of the Pulaski County Historical Society at the Winamac library in the spring; the topic was "Vernacular Fenestration." Capouch wrote part of the foreword to the book Asterisk™: The Definitive Guide, 4th Edition, published by O'Reilly in May.

Prof. Jennifer Coy and husband John

Jennifer Coy, PhD, Associate Professor of Physics and Computer Science, attended the Association for Computing Machinery Special Interest Group for Computer Science Education conference in Denver, including a workshop, "Implementing the Inverted Classroom." She attended the Indiana Space Grant Consortium (INSGC) Annual Meeting at Ball State University on April 12. Coy received the Teaching Excellence award from SJC and a grant from the Presidential Innovation Grant program to develop a flipped classroom approach to teaching a Computer Science course, Data Structures and Algorithms, in fall 2013.

Gull

Anne Gull, PhD, Professor of Chemistry, and Associate Professor of Education Dr. Lana Zimmer, PhD, attended the Dynamics of Climate Conference at Purdue University, May 15-17. The conference and professional development toolkit provided a climate system approach to understanding how the Earth's climate is changing. The toolkit utilizes datasets and activities, and it will be utilized in Cores 5 and 6 as a means for students to gain experience and understanding in how to interpret, analyze, and represent data using scientific concepts.

Todd Huff '03, Lecturer, participated in Hazardous Waste and Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan training conducted by US Compliance Corporation on May 21. Huff designed comprehensive rate variance and material price variance tools for use in the Coleman Cable-Lafayette rubber mixing facility. Through the end of June, the facility achieved favorable variances in these categories in excess of $300,000 relative to 2012. Huff assisted the rubber mixing facility at Coleman Cable-Lafayette in becoming the first facility within the corporation to pass the Lean Daily Management audit on June 20.

Janco

Steve Janco, MCM, DMin, completed the commentary for the chapter "Sacred Music" in A Pastoral Commentary on Sacrosanctum Concilium: The Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy of Vatican II, to be published by Liturgy Training Publications this fall. He wrote the cover article, "Sing to the Lord an Old Song," for the April issue of the journal Celebration and wrote an article for the April issue of The Liturgical Singer. Janco was interviewed in the June 7-20 edition of the National Catholic Reporter and presented the keynote address and three workshops at the Orlando Liturgical Conference, June 20-21, and presented two workshops at the convention of the National Association of Pastoral Musicians in Washington, DC, at the end of July.

John P. Nichols, STL, PhD, STL NEH Distinguished Teaching Professor and Professor of Philosophy, put together a line-up of materials (almost all published) from 30-some years of SJC participation in national projects on general and liberal education in preparation for the June workshop on the Core Program. The line-up shows a clear trajectory of SJC's transition from participant to leader in these endeavors. The publications in 2004, 2006, 2009, and 2013, in particular, give evidence of SJC's influence on important issues on the national level. See page 29 about the Core Workshop.

Michael Nichols, PhD, '00, William E. Johnston, Jr. Assistant Professor of Religious Studies, chaired and presided over the Religions of Asia section at the Midwest American Academy of Religion meeting at Ohio Northern University. On May 23, he chaired a roundtable at Northwestern University in Chicago on the future of Buddhist Studies in honor of Professor George Bond's retirement from Northwestern University (George Bond was Nichols' PhD adviser.).

Rev. William Stang, MD, C.P.P.S. '72 retired from the United States Army with most of that service in the Indiana Army National Guard. He served as 113th Engineer Battalion Chaplain, Brigade Chaplain for the 38th Aviation and 76th Infantry Brigades, 38th Infantry Division Chaplain, and State Chaplain for Indiana's Army and Air National Guard. Special duty assignments in the US included the Olympic security Joint Forces in Atlanta, Ga; victim identification in the air disaster of Roselawn, Ind; Task Force Chaplain for the National Guard relief effort after Hurricane Katrina; and Catholic support Chaplain for ROTC Warrior Forge at Fort Lewis, Wash. His overseas deployments included Deputy Task Force Chaplain to the 101st Airborne in Kosovo in 2001, Task Force Chaplain for the 38th Infantry Division in Bosnia and Kosovo in 2004-2005, and as Catholic support Chaplain to the XVIII Airborne Corps in Iraq in 2008. Stang was promoted to Colonel in 2007. His retirement from the Army comes after 25+ years of service. His military awards include: Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Army Commendation Medal, NATO Medal, Joint Meritorious Unit Citation, Adjutant General's Staff Award, and Indiana Meritorious Service Award. Stang continues to teach as a Professor of Biology and Dean of the Core Program at SJC.

Karen Venditti, PhD, Assistant Professor of Education, attended the International Reading Association's (IRA) annual convention in San Antonio, Texas and was asked to serve on the 2013-14 IRA Elva Knight Research Grant Committee; she continues to review articles for their journal, The Reading Teacher. In April, Venditti was invited to be a grant reviewer for the Department of Defense Education Activity 2013 grant review process. The grants will support military-connected students by improving their academic outcomes and well-being, supporting their foreign language programs, and supporting their health, nutrition, and physical education programming.

Maxim Zheleznyak, Assistant Professor of Music and Director of Orchestras, performed at Carnegie Hall in New York City on May 3. Zheleznyak, a nationally renowned violinist, is a regular member of the Manhattan Chamber Orchestra, Manhattan Contemporary Chamber Ensemble, and the Finger Lakes Chamber Music Festival.

Bonnie Zimmer, Associate Professor of Art and Assistant Professor of Education, was featured on the front page of The Times of Northwest Indiana on February 18 in an article titled, “Environmental artist weaves nature with discarded items for IUN exhibit” for her art exhibit, “Objects of Contemplation: Rural Hybrids,” which was on display until March 8 at the Gallery for Contemporary Art at Indiana University Northwest.

Zimmer

Lana Zimmer, PhD, Associate Professor of Education, attended the premier conference in science education that spans P-16 – the National Science Teachers Association Conference in San Antonio, Texas, April 11-14: “Next Generation Science: Learning, Literacy, and Living.” With a renewed emphasis on STEM fields in education, the conference is launching a new set of standards for STEM learning. The conference focused on assessment, building a solid foundation in the STEM disciplines with the implementation of research-based best practices, improving instruction for diverse learners, and the integration of technology in teaching and learning in the STEM fields.

DR. JOHN NICHOLS

PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY, SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT AND NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES DISTINGUISHED PROFESSOR

Dr. John Nichols announced his retirement from Saint Joseph's College, effective April 2013. He began teaching at the College in 1968. His work in education led him to numerous affiliations with higher education associations, including the Association for General and Liberal Studies, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and the Higher Learning Commission.

In addition to his teaching, Nichols twice served as the SJC Vice President for Academic Affairs and has served more than 20 years on the SJC Board of Trustees. During his career, he earned numerous honors from colleagues, students, and professional organizations. He had 34 articles published on philosophy, liberal education, and general education; presented 123 talks to associations and other colleges and universities; and served as a consultant or project evaluator more than 70 times for other institutions.

Core Involvement in National Projects

During his 23-year tenure as Core Curriculum Director, Dr. Nichols shepherded the continued refinement and development of the Core Program, securing millions of dollars in grants and spending thousands of hours mentoring faculty and students on its utilization and execution. Dr. Nichols was the featured speaker at the Core Summer Workshop 2013, which took place in June, attended by many faculty and staff. It was invaluable in understanding the history, progression, and development of the Core Program.

SHARING A PERSONAL LEGACY

Reflecting on his years at Cape Canaveral and General Dynamics, Tom Phillipp '57 shows how valuable an SJC education is in leading to an exciting career...

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, Phillipp was raised in Fort Wayne, Indiana. His family moved there when he was seven. Phillipp graduated with honors from Campion Jesuit High School in Prairie du Chien, Wisc. After graduating from SJC with a BA in Math-Physics and a BS in Electrical Engineering from Purdue, Phillipp embarked on his career at Douglas Aircraft at Cape Canaveral. A year later, he "went across the street" to General Dynamics.

For the next eight years, Tom not only saw history in the making, but also helped to make it happen, working on the lunar and planetary probe missions and the Mercury and Gemini-Target manned missions. Phillipp recounted, "I had the dubious distinction of having been in the blockhouse for the launch attempt of what to this day has been the biggest explosion at ground level in the history of the Cape—in September 1959."

Although much activity at the time was classified, Tom was able to accumulate an extensive and valuable photo collection of the launch activities and mission operations as memorabilia.

Phillipp continued his 33 years with General Dynamics at their home plant in San Diego, managing the Quality Engineering Department production programs, including: DC-10/MD-11 and space shuttle fuselages; Tomahawk Cruise Missile; and nuclear fusion reactor and superconducting magnet components.

When the Cold War ended, General Dynamics shut down their four San Diego divisions and Phillipp retired early. After retiring, he worked part-time moving motor homes, which took him around the US. Phillipp and his wife, Betty (whom he met on a blind date at SJC), have enjoyed many years of international travel—and 14 grandchildren.

Benjamin Jay Wysocki is welcomed to the family by proud grandmother, Marcella Dreiling Cameron '74; and great aunts, Mary Ann Dreiling '71 and Mildred Dreiling Young '75; all SJC Fellows, 4/20/13.

NEW MEMBERS

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Patricia Offer Zepeda '93 is a resident of Chicago and works in financial development and fundraising at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago. "A school like SJC is unique in its size and the sense of community it fosters in its students," said Zepeda. "As an alumna, especially one who received financial support from the College, I feel strongly about staying close and remaining very involved in order to promote SJC and to keep it vital for generations to come."

Margaret Broderick '08 (pictured with Christopher Bush '07) is a resident of Palos Heights, Ill. and is a middle school teacher at St. Barnabas School and a golf coach at Mother McAuley Liberal Arts High School, both of which are located in Chicago. "As a school teacher, I feel my skill set and network of relationships will serve me well on the Alumni Board. As a proud alumna of SJC, I understand the importance of giving back and remaining involved."

Pumas Gather for a Good Cause

A group of SJC alumni met at a charity event at Irish Times in Brookfield, Ill. in the spring. Celebrating its fourth year of existence, "Amp Up Awareness for Epilepsy," a grassroots movement, was created to show that celebrating this cause could be fun and exciting. Jamie Fennessy '09 and his sister Brigid Baffico, who has had epilepsy for 17 years, created the event. An ambassador for the Anita Kaufmann Foundation, Baffico speaks at schools to bring awareness to the community: "The more people who know—the more correct information we can put out there, the better." Headlining at the event was a band that was started at SJC by Fennessy and Brandon Mayse '09, adding Mayse's brother Ryan and Daniel Link from Centerville, Ind. Jordan Jacobs '09, Marissa Wartenberg '09, and Stephanie Madsen '09 were all in attendance. Wartenberg said, "The whole day is really about wearing purple and cherishing this movement. The future is bright! Every year the event continues to grow. Awareness is the key and every person who knows one more fact about the 75 million people worldwide living with epilepsy is another pebble in the pond to keeping this movement going."

Class of 1966 mini-reunion: Jim Echle and Bill Queenan.

Brandon Deardorff '05 (L) and Mike O'Rourke '83 (R) celebrate Mike's 30th anniversary at Naylor Pipe Company.

Mike VanEekeren '85, Vice President of Sales for Vaneer Foods, spoke to students on the topic of getting a job outside the major. Pictured with Kevin Kelly '16.

Professor-Student Mini-Reunion

Prof. Bonnie Zimmer met up with two of her former students in Chicago at the Art Institute: "We spent the day together and had a wonderful little reunion." Lauren Moretti '07 (L) was a double major in Psychology and Art. She has been living and teaching ESL in Taiwan for 4 years. Shelly Klotzbach '06 (R) was a double major in Education (K-12) and Elementary Education (K-6). She lives in Upstate New York and has been teaching Art at the Free School, a small independent school in Albany, NY for 5 years.

Mike Slattery '75 spoke to Assistant Professor John Kennedy's Economics classes.

Colby Alexis '14, Katrina Spence '93, Heather Hagan McVeigh '01, Tia Glass Ghattas '93, Prof. Bill White, Seth Arthur '14, Dylan Helton '14. Three SJC alumni, all successful attorneys, came to critique student presentations in Professor White's class.

HONOR ROLL of DONORS

Gifts made to Saint Joseph's College touch every corner of campus. Thanks to our donors, the first phase of the Fellows Chapel Renovation Project is underway as crews have begun to restore the beloved twin towers. This year many student service and athletic training offices underwent major renovations along with our Student Success Center and television studio. We are also very proud to offer new programs and initiatives such as a master's degree in Forensic Science, minor in Sustainability, and guaranteed tuition rate. But most importantly, your support ensured that in fall 2012, 100% of incoming SJC freshmen received financial aid.

In the pages that follow, you will find the 2013 Honor Roll of Donors listing the College's supporters from July 1, 2012 through June 30, 2013. We are grateful for the support of our alumni, parents, and friends who give so generously to ensure the College's continued success. If, by our error, your name did not get listed – we offer our apologies and ask that you contact us at 800.227.1898 or email collegefund@saintjoe.edu.

With many thanks,

Mark Brouwer '04
Director of Development

HOW DID YOU INCLUDE SJC IN YOUR ESTATE PLAN?

SJC is the beneficiary of an insurance policy.

WHAT INSPIRED YOU TO INCLUDE SJC IN YOUR ESTATE PLAN?

I wanted to thank the College for my education and to provide funds for its continued existence for other students.

AT WHAT AGE/STAGE IN LIFE SHOULD ONE BEGIN ESTATE PLANNING?

Begin planning as early as you can afford to.

WHAT WORDS OF WISDOM DO YOU HAVE FOR THOSE WHO HAVE NOT YET BEGUN ESTATE PLANNING?

It is a very important part of your family planning. You are benefiting all members of the family. It is necessary to have documents in place to handle unexpected problems during a lifetime and to make sure your assets go to your heirs at death with the least possible transfer costs.

HAVE YOU COMMUNICATED YOUR FINAL WISHES TO FAMILY/LOVED ONES?

Yes.

DOES SOMEONE OTHER THAN YOURSELF KNOW HOW TO LOCATE ALL OF YOUR IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS WHEN IT COMES TIME TO SETTLE YOUR AFFAIRS?

Yes.
